Drunk mum drove Jag on three wheels

A WOMAN drove off with only three wheels on her car after a crash in Newmarket town centre.

Christine Hall drank nearly a whole bottle of wine before the collision, which involved two other cars.

Despite losing a wheel from her Jaguar, she drove on for another 300 yards before being stopped by a police officer.

Hall, who admitted drink-driving and failing to stop after a collision, was warned by magistrates at Bury St Edmunds the offences were so serious she could go to jail.

The court heard that a breath test showed she had nearly four and a half times the legal limit of alcohol.

The smash happened near the town's Market Square at 2pm on Thursday, January 10. No-one was injured, but Hall, 53, was unaware that she had lost a wheel from her car and drove on before coming to a halt in Fred Archer Way.

Rosalind Clark, prosecuting, said after a police officer stopped Hall's car he received a radio message from a colleague about a collision about 300 yards away.

Hall, of The Street, Worlington, originally told police she had not had anything to drink for 12 hours. But a breath test showed a reading of 155 micrograms of alcohol in 100 millilitres of breath. The legal limit is 35 micrograms.

Mrs Clark said: "She couldn't really recall the accident. She just remembered a man in a white van shouting after her."

Jeremy Kendall, defence solicitor, said Hall, who has three sons in their 20s, had previously had a drink problem which she had "addressed" through medical intervention about three years earlier.

Firefighters raise the roof to rescue adventurous cat

FIREFIGHTERS had to be called to help curious cat Coke get free from under the roof of a bungalow.

Coke, a two-year-old female, did not appear when her owner, nine-year-old Kara Kemp, put out the food for her family's three cats.

Later that evening Kara's mum Ellie heard a miaow and scuffling from behind the roof soffits of a neighbour's bungalow at Manny Mercer Court in Howard de Walden Way, Newmarket.

There appeared to be no way for the cat to get out and the only answer was to call the fire service.

A fire crew removed a section of soffit but Coke would not come out and disappeared further into the recesses of the roof.

The crew decided to leave the section open and leave the area to give Coke a chance of getting out by herself and about an hour later she came in through the window of the Kemps' bungalow none the worse for the ordeal.

"We've no idea how she got in there," said Kara's dad, Rob, 36.

Kara, a pupil at Newmarket's St Felix Middle School, said: "I thought it was strange when she didn't come for her dinner. She's normally the first one of the three cats to come for the food."

"I'm pleased she's back."

The fire service was called at about 5pm on Sunday.

Schools win praise from inspectors

Learning is a pleasure for children

A VILLAGE school is celebrating top marks in its latest inspection.

The school at Kennett, near Newmarket, was rated as good or outstanding in all categories by an inspector from Ofsted.

Cheryl Thompson, the lead inspector, said Nicola Bramley, head of the 68-pupil school, showed exceptional leadership and that parents were "overwhelmingly supportive" of the school.

Mrs Bramley said: "We are very pleased with this report. It reflects the total commitment of our staff, pupils, parents and governors to ensure successful learning for every child."

The inspector said: "The headteacher's exceptional leadership and determination to provide enjoyable learning experiences, and include pupils with learning difficulties and/or disabilities, is shared by staff and governors."

"Her exceptional commitment to ensuring a breadth of high-quality learning experiences contributes significantly to pupils' enjoyment and achievement."

The school was rated "good" for teaching and learning. Pupils were also praised for their good behaviour.

The report said: "Excellent relationships underpin teachers' good class management."

But the school's cramped building came in for criticism with no staff room, no space for a separate Year 4 class and with disabled pupils having to use the staff toilet.

Pupils flourish in caring atmosphere

A CHURCH school has been praised by government and Church of England inspectors. Newmarket's All Saints Primary school was rated good in almost every category in its latest inspection by Ofsted, the Office for Standards in Education.

The 120-pupil school was also given top marks by an Anglican inspector who said its distinctiveness and effectiveness was "outstanding."

The Church of England inspector also praised the school for an "exceptional" policy of including all children. She said: "Children who failed in other schools are developing and flourishing in the caring and nurturing atmosphere that is evident in the school."

The Ofsted report gave the school an "outstanding" rating – the top mark available – for promoting equality of opportunity and tackling discrimination so that all children are able to achieve as well as they can.

Jane Eccleston, the head teacher, said: "We were delighted with the reports – the religious education one was exceptionally good – we felt it really reflected the exceptional talents of the staff and acknowledged the care we give to the children." The only area where the school got an average "satisfactory" grade was in attendance.

The Ofsted report recommended improvements in the way that pupils' progress is monitored and improvements in computer skills teaching.

The report also called for better outdoor facilities for the youngest children.

Mrs Eccleston said the issues had been recognised before the inspection and measures were in hand to deal with them.

Unlicensed TV viewers

A WOMAN had The Simpsons cartoon series on her television when she was caught using a TV without a licence.

Joanne Vickers, of Churchill Court, Newmarket, was fined £150 and was ordered to pay £60 costs plus a £15 victim surcharge by magistrates at Mildenhall.

She did not appear in court and she was convicted on evidence given by a television licensing officer. He said the cartoon was showing when an official called at her flat to check whether she had a licence on September 9.

The case was one of 14 dealt with at court on the same day. A total of £22,180 in fines was imposed together with £840 in costs and £210 in victim surcharge.

Pie leads to evacuation

AN overcooked pie caused the evacuation of a block of flats after it filled with smoke.

The pie had been left in the oven of a first-floor flat in the St Patrick block at Icewell Hill, Newmarket, while the tenant was out.

The alarm was raised just after 9.30pm on Saturday, January 19 and 27 people had to leave their flats while firefighters tackled the incident. They had to break into the flat, but no other damage was caused and residents were able to return after about 30 minutes.

Daytime break-in CASH and jewellery was stolen from a house in a daytime burglary.

Burglars got into the house, in Edinburgh Road, Newmarket, between 8.45am and 3.10pm on Monday, January 14. The value of the stolen property has not been disclosed.

Anyone with information should contact Det Con Claire Burgess at Newmarket CID on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Update pet chips if you move house

A CAT charity has reminded owners to update details of their address if their pet is microchipped.

Cats Protection is looking after a cat found in Haverhill which has a microchip. But they have been unable to find the owner at the address recorded.

The eight-year-old black and white long haired cat called Jay, pictured above, was found in the Haverhill area about a year ago. Louise Tabron, a foster carer for Cats Protection in Haverhill, said: "When we found the cat had a microchip we thought we would be able to find the owner quite easily, but it seems they have moved."

"It is important for owners to make sure that their details are updated on the microchip records if they move."

The owner was recorded as Lydia Stephens, of Mildenhall, but she could not be traced. The owner can contact Ms Tabron on (01440) 760923.

■ Another cat owner in Mildenhall has appealed for information about her pet which went missing on Sunday. Kenny, who has a distinctive tabby face and legs with a white fluffy coat, was last seen at about 1.30am on Sunday. Owner Toni Gilbert, who lives in Kingsway, is offering a reward for his safe return. She can be contacted on 07917 428660.

First-born foal ready to follow family tradition

THIS charming foal was first past the post at the National Stud in Newmarket.

The frolicking filly is the first foal born at the world-famous stud this year, arriving on Saturday at just after 9.45pm.

The thoroughbred is sticking close to its mother, Just Dreams, but is soon expected to follow in the glorious race-winning tradition of her family.

Her father is the famous Montjeu, who has won Group One races at Royal Ascot, while her mother was sister to fans' favourite My Emma, who romped home in the prestigious Yorkshire Oaks and Prix Vermeille back in 2000.

Stud director David Somers said: "She's a strong foal with a lot of quality and both she and the mare are doing well.

"We are really excited about this foal and we have high hopes for her."

"She might be another classic winner when she starts racing aged two."

The foal has yet to named and will be known by its mother's name until it starts training aged two. Mr Somers also has high hopes for the foal's mother, who will now be paired with one of racing's outstanding thoroughbred stallions. He added: "Just Dreams will now be one of the first mares to be covered by dual 2000 Guineas winner Cockney Rebel in his first season here at the stud."

He has an exciting book of top-quality mares lined up already and we're looking forward to a busy season for him."

The National Stud has since seen two further foals born and expects about 100 new foals over the next few months.

The centre will welcome visitors to its 500 acres of paddock on public tours from March 1.

Drink-drive mum may face jail

■ From Page 1.

She had been working at a Newmarket children's nursery on the morning of the crash. The previous night she had consumed a bottle of wine at home and had drunk "the better part" of a bottle of wine she had in her car before driving home from the nursery.

Mr Kendall said she had been involved in "a minor road traffic collision" and had not been aware that she had lost a wheel from the car.

"Mercifully nobody was hurt," he said. "It was clearly a shocking experience for her and her husband. A £16,000 car has been written off and due to the circumstances the insurance company will be able to avoid a claim from the insured party."

He said Hall had voluntarily resigned from her job at the nursery because of publicity over the crash.

Magistrates imposed an interim driving ban for six months and adjourned the case for a pre-sentence report to be prepared by a probation officer.

Graham Higgins, presiding magistrate, said the offences were so serious that a prison sentence would have to be considered. He also asked the prosecution to have more details of the collision for the next hearing, at Sudbury court in February 19.

Roof cut off crash car

PART of the A14 was blocked on Tuesday after a collision between a car and a lorry.

Firefighters cut the roof off the car, a black Vauxhall Vectra, to remove the man who was driving. He is not thought to have suffered serious injuries. A woman passenger was able to get out by herself.

The crash happened near the junction with the A11 between Newmarket and Kentford and involved a Scania lorry towing a trailer. The lorry driver was unhurt.

One lane of the eastbound carriageway was closed for about two hours after the crash which happened at about 12.40pm.

Rock star will head race nights line-up

A WORLD-FAMOUS rock star will head the line-up for this year's Newmarket Nights extravaganza.

In the latest coup for the event organisers, Canadian singer Bryan Adams will perform at the July Course for the event's opening concert.

Adams has sold 75 million records worldwide and holds the record for the longest stay at number one in the singles chart.

His smash hit Everything I Do (I Do It For You) spent 16 weeks at the top spot in 1991, after it was featured in the Hollywood blockbuster Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves.

His other hits include Summer of '69, 18 'til I Die, Please Forgive Me and Have You Ever Really Loved A Woman?

As well as achieving success in the charts, Adams is also an acclaimed photographer and has snapped celebrities including Kate Moss, Victoria Beckham and Cindy Crawford. The news he has agreed to appear as part of the summer show follows the announcement in November that reggae outfit UB40 will perform as part of the series of Friday night concerts on July 18.

The line-up for the five remaining nights of the hugely popular annual event is still to be announced.

On each Friday of Newmarket Nights, the live music will follow an early evening race meeting.

Leading acts which performed in 2007 included Madness, Jools Holland, Ronan Keating and Wet Wet Wet.

The Bryan Adams concert takes place on Friday, June 20.

Tickets cost £35 for the premier enclosure, £25 for the grandstand and paddock enclosure, and £15 for the garden enclosure.

Sheikh revives interest in bid for Liverpool

SHEIKH Mohamed, a major figure in horseracing in Newmarket, has again been linked with a takeover of Liverpool FC.

A year after Dubai International Capital (DIC) dropped its bid to take over the Anfield club, the investment arm of Dubai's government is reported to be pursuing a fresh £350 million takeover.

American duo Tom Hicks and George Gillett, who beat DIC to win control of the club, have a tempestuous relationship with the club's manager, Rafa Benitez.

They are understood to be re-financing a £350 million deal to pay off debts incurred in their £220 million deal to buy the club.

DIC – headed by Dubai's ruler, Sheikh Mohammed, who has horseracing and breeding operations at Newmarket – pulled out of a bid to buy the club in January 2007 when the board refused to agree to a deadline and started talks with Hicks and Gillett.

■ CONTENDER . . . Sheikh Mohammed.

The firm is now reviving its interest – but insists it will not pay over the odds. The package would involve DIC taking on the debt incurred in the previous takeover in March 2007.

It has also been reported that DIC is imposing terms about which the American pair are believed to be unhappy.

But Hicks insists he will not accept an offer for his stake.

He said: "I have not received any offer to purchase the club from DIC or anyone else, much less accepted any such offer. Nor do I have any intention of doing so."

Joe McLean, a football finance expert with accountants Grant Thornton, said: "The talk at the moment is that there will be some hard bargaining going on and it may take a few weeks."

Skill-sharing gets them all talking

A NEW scheme aimed at improving children's self-confidence has been launched at a village school.

Former pupils as well as governors, friends and teachers have been involved in the Monster Sharing Week at Burrough Green Primary School, near Newmarket.

The project aims to help children's "life skills" including self-esteem, friendships and self-expression.

Robert Ensich, a school governor, came up with the idea while training on a self-expression and leadership programme run by Landmark Education, and helped the staff and children get the project up and running.

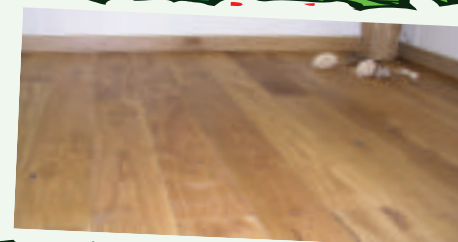

The programme for the Monster Sharing Week involved a different theme for each day, with the linking idea of sharing with each other underpinning the whole project.

The week involved sharing toys and books as well as new games and skills.

At the end of the week children shared their thoughts and ideas.

Steve Dennington, school headteacher, said: "We believe the development of skills for life is so important for children in society today. Sharing with one another in whatever way is a key skill we need to develop in our children for their future."

Window pane smashed

A WINDOW has been smashed at a house near a parking area in Doug Smith Close, Newmarket.

The incident happened between 2pm on Wednesday, January 16, and 6.30am the next day.

Anyone with information should call Pc Lee Sampher, of the Newmarket North Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on (0800) 555111.

Helicopter in hunt for car

A MAN was arrested after police tracking a stolen car searched an area of Newmarket on Tuesday.

The Suffolk police helicopter and officers with dogs searched the New Cheveley Road area after a tip-off from the neighbouring Cambridgeshire force.

The car was found parked in New Cheveley Road and officers later arrested a 22-year-old man in nearby Boleyn Walk.

The man, from Eriswell, was arrested on suspicion of burglary and was taken to Bury St Edmunds police station for questioning.

Airbase is set to expand

AN American Air Force base will be extended onto adjoining farm land after council planners approved plans.

The Mildenhall base is to take in 30 acres of land, already owned by the Ministry of Defence, so that a new entrance can be created.

Forest Heath District Council has approved the application by Defence Estates to fence in land formerly rented to a local farmer.

A written justification, submitted to the council by Defence Estates, said the extra land was not only needed for security but also to ensure "safe use" of the airfield.

It said the land use needed to be changed "to improve access and egress from the air base by providing a new entrance to the base on the land in question."

The move would also lead to road layout changes on the approach to the base on the A1101.

Land schemes to tackle climate

FARMERS and land managers were able to find out how they can help to tackle climate change at a special one-day conference and exhibition.

"The heat is on," as the day was called, involved seven of the region's main environmental and agricultural bodies and was held at Newmarket's Rowley Mile Racecourse.

Leading experts gave ideas about how farmers and land owners could adapt their businesses to the challenge of a changing climate.

They were told of the financial as well as environmental benefits to be gained from making better use of water and creating "clean" energy.

Trade stands displayed wood fuel boilers, wind turbines, composting and a biogas system as well as low carbon building materials. The event was funded by Natural

England and the Environment Agency in partnership with Country Land and Business Association, East of England Development Agency, National Farmers' Union, Renewables East, and The Forestry Commission. Natural England's conference organiser Dr Mary Dimambro said: "This was a unique opportunity for farmers and land managers to gain an insight into adapting to climate change."

Anti-plastic bag support growing

SUPPORT is growing for a campaign to ban plastic carrier bags – but the date of a day of action has been put back.

Worries about finance mean the event originally planned in Newmarket for St Valentine's Day, February 14, has been put off until April 1, April Fools' Day, with the slogan "You'd be a fool to use plastic."

Coun Chris Turner, the town's deputy mayor, is heading the campaign called ReNew.

He said he was pleased with the support which had been shown so far with supermarkets Waitrose and Tesco both involved.

"We have a good group of people on the committee and I take heart from that," he said. "The only slight concern is that we could do with more money for the campaign – but that's always the case.

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

"We wanted to be absolutely certain that all the finance was in place. I couldn't give that guarantee until the start of the new financial year."

The town council has allocated £1,000 for the campaign from its 2008/09 budget, which means that the cash would not officially be available under after April 1.

Coun Bill Sadler, chairman of Suffolk County Council and a Newmarket town councillor, has agreed to give a further £1,000 from his locality budget.

The ReNew group is also seeking funding from other sources including Suffolk County Council education, waste recycling company Viridor and the lottery through the Awards for All scheme.

The campaign is hoping to provide reusable bags made of cotton to replace free plastic bags given by supermarkets and other shops.

Coun Turner launched the campaign with the hope of following the example of the Devon town of Modbury which declared itself a plastic-bag free zone last year.

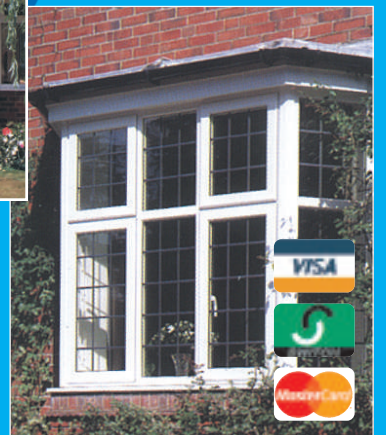

Now other towns are following their lead because of the environmental impact that plastic bags can have on wildlife and the planet in general.

Coun Turner said the campaign committee was hoping to have a banner across the High Street promoting the day.

Thieves net valued gift to community

YOUTH groups in a growing village have been dismayed by the theft of goal nets which were given to the parish. Community police officers, who took part in a footballing event for youngsters earlier this year, are determined to catch those responsible.

The two orange and white nets were stolen from the goalposts on the play area at Heatherset Way, Red Lodge.

The nets were given to the parish council in May and were used throughout the summer and autumn.

They disappeared some time between 9am on January 9 and 5pm on Wednesday, January 16. Anyone with information about the theft should call Police Community Support Officer Tim Hartup of the Icen Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers (0800) 555111.

Sheep could lose lambs after attack

A DOG attacked sheep in a field, injuring three and leaving the rest of a flock of 150 in a "distressed" state.

Farmer Philip Sabin, who owns the animals, is worried that the incident could result in the ewes losing the lambs they are about to give birth to.

The sheep were in a field at Station Road, Kennett. One of the flock was taken to the nearby Animal Health Trust, another two were found to have less serious injuries.

Police are investigating the incident as one of "cruelty to animals".

A Suffolk Police spokeswoman said: "This sort of thing is rare, but there is a possibility that the stress caused to the rest of the flock could lead to some lambs being aborted which would lead to a financial loss for the farmer."

The dog responsible would have been extensively bloodstained.

Anyone with information about the attack, which happened in a field close to the B1506 road between 5.30pm and 6.15pm on Wednesday, January 16, should call Pc Lesley Sloman at the Icen Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on (0800) 555111.

Youth assaulted

POLICE have appealed for help in tracing a youth responsible for an assault outside a fast food takeaway.

The victim, another youth in his late teens, suffered minor facial injuries in the attack which happened at about 11pm on Saturday, January 12, in Newmarket High Street.

The attacker was part of a passing group of youths. He stopped and carried out the assault, which police said was unprovoked.

Anyone with information should call Pc Lucy Holman at Newmarket Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on (0800) 555111.

Cane furniture is ideal in home

■ ON SITE . . . in Mildenhall.

FOR 30 years Cane Collection has been supplying a range of cane furniture for the home.

As one of the major suppliers of cane furniture in the area, Cane Collection has an extensive range of cane and rattan furniture as well as glass, resin and wrought iron furniture and garden ornaments.

Brothers, Steve and Andrew Dowling own the company and offer a friendly service and an extensive range of furniture for you to choose from.

Steve says: "We design the frame here and it is then made in the Far East. We manufacture the cushions and upholstery in our in-house upholstery division and then assemble your suite before it is delivered to you."

"We have a wide range of furniture offering everything from Lloyd Loom style suites to traditional three piece suites. Our prices vary, starting at £250 and go up to £1,400."

The furniture is made using natural cane and rattan which means that every piece of furniture is unique as each plant is individual.

Cane Collection offer a delivery service across the UK, Ireland and parts of Europe.

According to Steve, conservatories are still the most popular room of the house for people to have cane furniture in. He says: "In the UK, people generally have cane furniture in their conservatory only, but in Europe and Ireland it is also popular in dining rooms and bedrooms."

All Cane Collection suites have webbed seating for extra comfort and many are leather bound for extra durability and flexibility.

The covers are removable and fabrics and frames comply with government fire retardant requirements.

Spring's appeal for more hospital signs

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

AN MP has called for better road signs to help his constituents find Addenbrooke's Hospital.

Richard Spring, whose West Suffolk constituency includes Newmarket and Haverhill, has written to Dr Gareth Goodier, the chief executive of the hospital trust, asking for signs from the A14.

Mr Spring, who met Dr Goodier a week earlier to discuss concerns about health services, said people who had never visited Addenbrooke's would face problems in getting there because of the shortage of clear signs.

In his letter he said: "You can imagine that when people are anxious to get to the hospital for whatever reason, the lack of signage would be very distressing and irritating."

"It is only when you are well clear of the A14 that the signs begin to appear, and even then, they are not particularly clear."

Additionally, when you leave the hospital the signs are again very unclear as to how to head back to the A14 in particular.

"You will be aware that many of my constituents from the western part of Suffolk, including the towns of Newmarket and Haverhill, use the hospital."

He added: "As the hospital is increasingly of such regional importance, and its usage is growing, I would ask you to approach whatever authority is in charge of the hospital signage, whether it is Cambridgeshire County Council or the Highways Agency."

"If you need any support about this, please do not hesitate to revert to me."

An Addenbrooke's spokesman said: "Mr Spring's suggestion comes at a good time, because we're in the middle of a major review of signage in and around the hospital."

"Signs on public roads don't belong to us, but as part of the review, we'll certainly investigate how we can make it easier for people to find their way to Addenbrooke's."

A spokeswoman for the Highways Agency, which is responsible for signs on the A14, said: "If the hospital contacts us we shall send them an application pack."

The agency said the hospital trust would have to pay for any extra signs.

A county council spokesman said: "We have had very few complaints about the signage for the hospital in recent years."

"However, we are always looking at ways of improving access to Cambridge and major facilities such as the hospital and we would welcome an invitation from Addenbrooke's to help in any review they may be undertaking."

■ PEOPLE POWER . . . would-be jockeys for the John Smiths People's Race get ready to mount up for their first training ride on horses at the British Racing School, Snailwell Road, Newmarket.

Aspiring jockeys prepare to clear their first hurdle

PEOPLE taking part in an X-Factor-style contest to become jockeys have taken part in selection and training trials at Newmarket.

A total of 32 hopefuls, including a 48-year-old pub landlord, a 56-year-old police officer, a 44-year-old carpenter, a 38-year-old nail technician and several housewives, entered the John Smith's People's Race.

Half of them took part in two days of training and selection at the British Racing School in Newmarket and others underwent a similar process at the Northern Racing College in Doncaster. They were chosen from the thousands of people who submitted entries to ride on one of the biggest race days of the year - Grand National day at Aintree. Although the People's Race, run for the first time last year, does not include any jumps, the training is tough for many of the contestants. Some of them had never sat on a horse before.

The selection process will whittle the number of would-be jockeys down to 10 with two reserves. Only one of the 32 finalists was from the Eastern region. Newmarket resident Clare Twemlow, 29, an accountant for a pharmaceutical company who previously worked at the Racing School, was among those put through their paces by the school's jockey coach, Richard Perham. He said: "We have been involved with the People's Race from the beginning, and to be honest at first I thought the whole idea was crazy, however I was really impressed with how all of the riders who took part last year did so with such enthusiasm and success."

Some finalists were eliminated after the first day. But the rest go on for additional training in the next two months before a final assessment on March 15. The race will be run on April 5.

Alan gets his licence back

JOCKEY Alan Munro is set to return to the saddle 18 months after suffering convulsions on a flight to Deauville in France.

The jockey, based in Cambridge, has successfully applied for his racing licence back from the British Horseracing Authority after passing a medical examination.

He spent nearly a year in the Far East practising martial arts.

He said he had started riding horses at exercise for Newmarket trainer Peter Chapple-Hyam and hoped to be back race riding in the middle of February.

His best season was 1991 when he won the English and Irish Derbys on Generous.

Drunk wielded sword at police

A DRUNKEN man who brandished a Samurai sword at police and threatened to "chop off their heads" had no recollection of the incident when he sobered up, a court heard.

Anthony Clark, 47, was told by magistrates at Bury St Edmunds he could face jail after they adjourned his case for pre-sentence reports on Monday.

He pleaded guilty to possessing offensive weapons, criminal damage, affray and assaulting a police officer at Newmarket in December.

He was granted bail to appear before Sudbury magistrates on February 20 on condition that he lives at an address in Hertfordshire and does not enter Newmarket.

Sarah Hardingham, chairman of the magistrates at Bury, said: "We consider the matter is very serious, and we are not ruling out a custodial sentence or sending the case to the crown court for sentence."

Email: editorial@
newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

Kevin Lawson, prosecuting, said Clark had been the worse for wear from drinking at the time of the offences and told police he had no recollection of anything that happened after 4pm.

The incident happened at around 9pm when police were called to a disturbance outside the flat where his girlfriend lived.

When they arrived, Clark was approaching the nearby flat where he lived, and officers saw the Samurai sword, a meat cleaver and three or four knives he was holding under his dressing gown.

When he realised police had seen the weapons, Clark locked himself in the flat.

Officers spoke to him through the letterbox and he brandished the sword at them through the letterbox, then smashed it through a glass pane in the door.

He threatened to kill the officers and said he would chop off their heads and arms. Finally he fell asleep and officers were able to go in and arrest him.

Later, Clark told police he had been drinking strong lager and whisky since 2pm and did not recall the incident.

Kevin McCarthy, for Clark, said the Samurai sword was a decorative item and the other weapons were domestic kitchen items.

Mr McCarthy said: "When I saw him on Christmas Eve, he was in a very sorry state.

"He was very tearful and accepts that he is an alcoholic. His father died suddenly at 56 and this man took to the bottle and has been drinking very heavily ever since, consuming a bottle of whisky a day.

"He has taken that awful personal road to Damascus that men and women take and admitted that he has a drink problem.

"His big battle is going to be with drink."

'Most disabled dog' vet had ever seen has slimmed down by half

■ NEW LEASE OF LIFE . . . above, Rusty after losing almost half his body weight on a doggy diet and, right, as he was before he started getting help from the RSPCA.

HE'S not as fit as a butcher's dog, but Rusty is now nearly half the hound he used to be.

The podgy pooch hit the headlines a year ago after his owners, David and Derek Benton, were found guilty at Ely Magistrates Court of causing Rusty unnecessary suffering by overfeeding him. But Rusty, who once weighed a whopping 74.2kgs, is now enjoying life again after losing almost half his body weight.

Thanks to a strict diet, Rusty has now hit his target weight of 40kg, helping to relieve the stress on his arthritic legs.

He is also back home with his owners at their home in Newmarket after RSPCA officers took him into care for nine months in March 2006, helping him to lose 24.6kgs.

He was returned to his owners in January 2007 on condition that he did not put the weight back on and remained under the treatment of his vet Alex Wylie.

And Rusty finally reached his target weight of 40kgs in December after receiving a special Royal Canin diet.

Mr Wylie, from Bury St Edmunds, said: "Rusty has made huge progress. We can now feel his ribs and he has a waistline at last.

"He is a much happier and healthier dog now, his pain is well-controlled and he walks much better than he could before.

"He can stand for long periods of time and doesn't tire as easily.

"Prior to his treatment and weight loss Rusty was the most disabled dog I have ever seen in practice.

"However, he now has a proper life again."

New magazine aims to help town's pensioners

A NEW free magazine for pensioners is being launched in Newmarket thanks to backing from local authorities.

The quarterly magazine, called The Time Of Your Life, is being produced by the Newmarket Day Centre, thanks to funding help from the West Suffolk Local Strategic Partnership (LSP), and will be distributed free of charge to older people living in the community.

The first issue is expected in the spring and will provide information to help people remain in their own homes, give advice and details of local services, and include some light-hearted recipes and quizzes. The magazine will also be used as a communications tool to gather comments, requests and feedback from older people in the area.

The day centre received a grant of £2,000 from West Suffolk LSP, which includes local councils and other organisations, to help get the project off the ground by paying for new IT publishing software and printing equipment.

The magazine is being produced in-house by volunteers who will handle the design and printing to keep costs down. They are keen to hear from any other volunteers who may be able to help with distribution or contribute to the content with stories, poems or tales of their own experiences.

Paul Goffin, day centre director, said: "We hope the new magazine will be interesting and informative for local people and will enable them to keep in touch with what's going on in the Newmarket area and give them an opportunity to have their say about what they would like in order to enjoy a good quality of life. The funding from West Suffolk LSP has been invaluable in making this possible."

Anyone interested in helping to produce the magazine or businesses interested in supporting the project should contact Mr Goffin (01638) 664262.

Town considers yet another bid for late-night food licence

A BURGER restaurant is the latest of a town's fast foods outlet to try for a licence to stay open until the early hours of the morning.

The Wimpy in Newmarket High Street has applied for council approval to stay open until 1am.

Late licences for food and drink sales in the town have been at the centre of controversy with concern about street violence in the early hours of the morning.

Last year a kebab shop in the High Street had an application to stay open until 3am rejected under the planning regulations.

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

Now there is a campaign against applications by the Total filling station in the High Street for permission to sell alcoholic drinks and fast food for 24 hours.

The filling station's applications are due to be considered by Forest Heath District Council's licensing act sub-committee on February 13.

The Wimpy's application for a 1am licence is open for comment until the end of this month. The town council's finance and policy committee was due to give its views at a meeting on Monday.

Huseyim Hamit, the manager of the Wimpy, said the restaurant would not be open every night until 1am even if he got the licence.

"I'm licensed to 11pm at the moment but some nights I close at 9pm or 9.30pm if there are no customers," he said.

"The KFC and the chicken shop on the opposite side of the road can stay open to 1am, so why shouldn't I be able to?"

"I would only open till 1am 10 or 15 nights a year, when the town is really busy after racing and the concerts at the racecourse.

"I have rent and rates of £40,000 a year so I need to be able to get customers when I can."

He said he had made the application to the district council after the police told him he was breaking his licence when he was open after 11pm on one night.

The police have expressed concern about late-night fast food outlets, particularly burger and kebab vans, being "flashpoints" for violence after people have left the town's pubs and night clubs.

Moving film to support charity for the homeless

A SPECIAL film screening will be staged by a charity to mark Homelessness Sunday.

Newmarket Open Door, which provides flats for homeless young people and runs a council hostel for homeless families, will be showing the BBC TV film Stuart - A Life Backwards.

Based on the book by Alexander Masters, it is the moving and humorous story of the friendship between a homeless man and a charity fundraiser set against the background of the campaign to free the jailed homeless workers known as the "Cambridge Two".

The screening, sponsored by Soham Books, will be at Newmarket Catholic Church Hall in Exeter Road on Monday, starting at 7.30pm. There will be no admission fee but donations will be collected for the charity.

Former Beirut hostage Terry Waite, president of Open Door, said: "Homelessness Sunday is a special time of year but people are homeless all year.

"Charities like the Foodbank, which operates in conjunction with Open Door, engage in a continual search for creative ways to enable them to regain their dignity and get back on their feet."

Wise cracks

Support at the Mitcham's Corner venue comes from Colin Owens, Christian Ancliff and Tony Cowards. Doors open at 8pm. Tickets are £5 advance and £7 on the door. Call (01223) 357268.

Rough gems

THE Menagerie Theatre Company will be staging two days of new plays at the Junction tomorrow and Saturday. It has gathered three of the region's top writing talents for the Rough Diamonds showcase event, which is a precursor to this year's Hotbed Festival of new writing in Cambridge. Shows start at 3pm and 8pm.

JOHN Savident in full anecdotal flow is so entertaining that he should really be classed a national treasure and saved for posterity.

Titbits from a lifetime in theatre, film and television means he can switch from a morsel on Hollywood icon Faye Dunaway to a snippet about Liz Dawn without pausing for breath. He started out in a very different career, as a young Lancashire police officer. Already a keen amateur thespian, when the chance came to join a touring production of The Student Prince, with John Hanson, in 1962, he took it.

He returns to the stage in his latest project, the classic comedy Hobson's Choice which plays the Arts Theatre, Cambridge – the city where the phrase first originated – this month. In 1994, though, he won a lasting place in the nation's affections when he blustered his way onto our TV screens as the redoubtable Fred Elliott, Coronation Street's booming butcher and one of Weatherfield's most enduring comic creations – a man who would never use one word when 10 would do.

"I based that on people I knew who really spoke like that," he says. "It was all to do with the Industrial Revolution and the Lancashire mills, where people repeated themselves because of the noise of the looms. "It was still happening when I was at infants' school. The girls would come out of the factories with cotton fluff everywhere and they used the repetition because it got into normal usage."

Fred may have gone to the great big soap opera in the sky but John plays another larger-than-life Lancashire character in Hobson's Choice, the overbearing Mr Hobson. A heavy-drinking boot-maker and browbeaten father he is a sort of northern comic King

Lear. "I didn't want to do it really because it was another Lancashire character," he admits. "For years nobody asked me to play a Lancashire character, only once or twice before Coronation Street and it never really took off. Now I've done Fred I'm lumbered with it."

■ Hobson's Choice opens on Wednesday, January 30, and runs until February 2, at 7.45pm with a Saturday matinee at 2.30pm. Tickets are £10-£27. Call (01223) 503333.

Making the smarter move

A NEW estate agency, Smart Residential, has opened its doors in Wellington Street, Newmarket. It is headed by Frank Smart, who has more than 13 years experience in the industry, and another local professional, Adam Masson.

Frank said: "We opened at Christmas in preparation for the New Year, and have been pleasantly surprised how quickly the local property market has begun to pick up. It is encouraging to already experience demand from clients in a wide price range, both for town and village properties."

As a firm in the heart of Newmarket, Frank is determined that Smart Residential will offer the very best levels of service to both buyers and sellers, complimented by up-to-date, professionally-produced marketing material.

Adam said: "We wanted to avoid looking like 'just another estate agent', and the feedback so far has been really positive. Both Frank and I are extremely passionate about what we do, so to have so much support, so early, is really encouraging."

"Furthermore, we have given a great deal of consideration to what clients want from 21st Century estate agents," said Frank. "These days the internet provides much of the initial leg-work for potential buyers, which now leaves the estate agent with time to focus upon service. However useful the internet may be, it's no replacement for good old-fashioned personal service. "Undoubtedly the market has changed, and estate agents will need to adapt to these changes. As a new company, Smart Residential is in a fortunate position to meet the market demands and tailor marketing and service to today's expectations."

Smart Residential is at 5b Wellington Street, Newmarket. Call in to the office for an informal chat, visit www.smart-resi.com, or telephone the office on (01638) 560007.

Top five used cars analysed

HERE'RE the top five used cars of 2007, as defined by you, the buyer, from the 1.3 million-plus used car checks sourced from the UsedCarExpert.com advice website.

They are:

■ Ford Focus (1998-present) – “The no-brainer family hatchback buy which is comfortable, spacious and practical,” says the online outfit's spokesman Matt Tumbridge. “Pre 2004 models still look good, and the car delivers on many levels, from driving pleasure to fitting all the family inside.”

Most economical model is the 1.8Tdi, returning 57mpg, and best used buy, the 1.8 Zetec, has plenty of power and economy.

UsedCarExpert.com recommends 30 pre-buy checks, and prices a 1998 1.8 Zetec, that has done around 78,000 miles, at about £2,800.

■ Vauxhall Astra (1991-2004) – “Easy to live with and very good value,” explains Tumbridge, “and 1998 models are more spacious and better built, whereas older examples are now the budget buys. There're thousands to choose from.”

Most economical version is the 1.7 Dti, which rewards with 58.9mpg, and best used buy is the 1.6 16-valve Club.

UsedCarExpert.com lists 22 necessary checks, and prices a 1998 1.6 Club, with around 67,000 miles under its belt, at £2,275.

■ Vauxhall Corsa (1993-2003) – Tumbridge declares the Corsa is cheap to buy and run, and easy to own. “Models were much improved from 2000, and because there are huge numbers around, prices can be temptingly low,” he adds.

Most economical variant is the 1.7Dti, with an overall 60.1mpg, and best used buy is the 1.2 16-valve five-door Elegance.

UsedCarExpert.com's website lists 25 pre-buy checks, and guide price for a 1998 1.2 Elegance, a 75,000-mile example, should be about £1,800.

■ Volkswagen Golf (1992-1998) – Golfs are easy to drive, safe and sensible, dull, but reassuringly solid, asserts Matt Tumbridge. “There're lots around now, and prices are getting lower, with running costs reasonable – and it is classier than an Astra,” says Tumbridge.

Most economical model is the 1.9Tdi, returning 56.8mpg, and best used buy is the 1.8 90bhp GL.

UsedCarExpert.com's check list names 23 possible faults, and it prices a 1998 1.8 GL that stands at just under the 100,000 miles mark at about £2,750.

■ BMW 3 Series (1998-2005) – “Great to drive and look at, with a rock solid image which continues to keep prices high, are 3 Series hallmarks,” says Tumbridge. “Avoid some of the base models, which are under equipped and may be difficult to sell on.”

Most economical model is the 1.8 TD, which returns 50.4mpg, and best used buy is the 320d ES.

UsedCarExpert.com has just 14 pre-buy checks listed, and prices a 1998 320, with a mileage around 87,000, at about £2,800.

■ BMW 3 SERIES . . . great to drive, get a reasonable spec model.

Audi unveils stunning 'S' option of the TT star BETTER late than never, Audi has finally produced an "S" version of the TT.

The TTS is destined for the UK in mid-2008 in both Coupé and Roadster body styles and features a power boosted 272bhp Turbo FSI petrol engine, capable of 0-62mph in 5.2 seconds. Opt for the S tronic dual-clutch automatic transmission, and acceleration times are reduced by a further two-tenths of a second.

The new sports model is the first TT to become a member of Audi's 'S quattro series' and has newly designed bi-xenon headlamps, a redesigned front apron incorporating larger air intakes and aluminium-look door mirror housings and deeper side skirts with 18-inch alloy wheels to boot. The revised rear will have four tailpipes to convey you're looking at the most extreme production TT to date.

Inside, the cabin is kitted out with Alcantara and leather combination sports seats, 'S' instruments with white needles, metal pedals and aluminium trim elements while the power steering has been reworked, the brakes enlarged and Audi's magnetic ride adaptive damping system has been fitted as standard.

AIR CON ...

Your Air Conditioning system does an excellent job keeping the interior of your vehicle at optimum temperature, the inside of your windows moisture and grease free and the air flow cool. It also cleans the air that circulates in your vehicle and removes odours.

The safest temperature to drive in is approximately 20 - 23°C. Your Air Conditioning system ensures that your cabin temperature stays at this level. To ensure it is working to its full potential and performing correctly, the Air Conditioning system requires a small amount of maintenance each year.

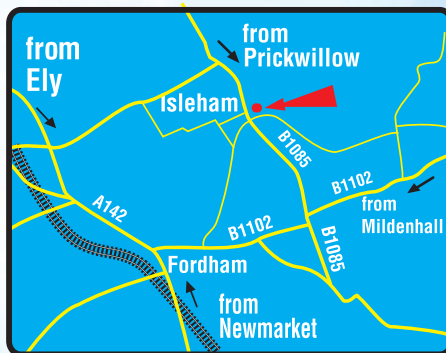

We recommend having your Air Conditioning system checked once a year. This is at a very reasonable charge, and can prevent costly repairs in the future.

Alfa's focus yields boost for EMG

LOCAL Alfa Romeo dealer, EMG Cambridge, is celebrating its part in helping the evocative Alfa Romeo marque post the single biggest percentage increase in UK sales by any mainstream manufacturer, according to new figures from the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders.

Up by 40 per cent year-on-year, the Alfa brand has been boosted by stunning new products – including the award-winning Alfa Spider and Alfa Brera – plus a concentrated focus on its dealer network, customer satisfaction and residual values.

At the cornerstone of the Alfa Romeo experience is a handpicked prestige dealer network focused on the marque's product and bespoke aftersales support. Significantly, sales of the stylish Alfa 159 in the fleet sector more than doubled thanks to increased reliability, stronger residuals and lower running costs.

Dealer principal at EMG, Kevin Driscoll, commented: "Alfa Romeo is one of the most alluring car brands in the world and with an increased dealer focus on customer service, we're winning more buyers away from obvious manufacturers. We're proud to have contributed to Alfa's success during 2007 and look forward to an exciting future."

This month will see delivery of 41 exclusive Alfa 8C Competizione supercars for the UK market.

MOTORING

The Fringe is the latest terror to cause mayhem on our roads

■ KATE MOSS... this hairstyle is OK – just.

AS the celebrity trend for long, eye-skimming fringes rages on, Britain's female motorists are putting themselves and their passengers at risk.

Almost 190,000 admit that they have had an accident, "near-miss" or made a sudden manoeuvre as a result of hair impairing vision while driving.

The research, conducted by female-friendly car insurer Shellas' Wheels, reveals that a massive 67 per cent of women currently have a hairstyle that can fall in their eyes while driving. However, despite this risk, only a fifth of women (21 per cent) always secure their hair off their face before getting behind the wheel. Indeed, more than nine million female motorists say they never secure their hair before driving.

The most common reasons cited by women for not securing hair back in the car include not believing it necessary (33 per cent); not remembering to bring a hair tie (eight per cent) and not wanting to ruin an existing hairstyle (eight per cent).

Considering more than half of women (53 per cent) prioritise style over practicality when it comes to hairstyles, and more than nine and a half million female drivers admit to giving no thought to how their peripheral vision might be affected when sitting in the hairdresser's chair, this is an issue that women need to take more seriously.

As well as obstructing female motorists' sight, the latest trends are also distracting women's attention in the car – 57 per cent of women admit taking their hands off the wheel to sort out their hair, temporarily losing control of the car.

Women in Northern Ireland are the most trend-conscious, with 80 per cent admitting to changing their hair to follow their latest style icon. In contrast, female motorists in the north-east are the least fashion-following, with more than half (55 per cent) saying that celebrity trends never influence their style. Female motorists in the south west are the safest drivers – 53 per cent of drivers in this region rate their hair style as "totally practical".

Martyn Maxey, hairdresser to the stars, commented: "For some celebrities, a change of hairstyle is headline news. Take Kate Moss and The Fringe for example – in recent weeks we've been inundated with requests for the long fringe and despite it falling over the eyes, it's now a fashion statement."

Martyn Maxey's top tips for safe driving and gorgeous hair:

■ It is easy to keep a simple headband or Alice band in your car at all times

■ For the extremely style-conscious there are a variety of hair slides that are fashionable at the moment, from classic tortoiseshell to diamante 'bling'

■ For the ultimate in glamour, a pair of Chanel sunglasses on top of your head will push all stray hair away from the face

The following hairstyles were voted the top three most dangerous on the roads:

■ The long fringe (50 per cent)

■ Sweeping fringe (44 per cent)

■ Short layers to frame the face (five per cent).

Town on rampage after early shock

HOCKEY: Newmarket needed a wake-up call before they crushed bottom-of-the-table March 8-0 in a feisty Cambs Women's League, Premier Division contest.

The strugglers seemed to settle first in the first league game back after the midwinter break and had a goal disallowed. That stirred Newmarket and their response was deadly, Claire McDonnell weaving her way through several players to slam the opening goal.

Tracy Cockerill made it 2-0, finding a gap between keeper and near post, and with Rachel Allen and Tania Parker making powerful runs to force a flurry of short corners, more goals were inevitable. Louise Downs converted a penalty, after a defender's foot blocked a certain goal, and then made it 4-0 by pouncing on a rebound from a short corner.

Zoe Bailey rounded off some excellent teamwork to score confidently, and McDonnell hit the sixth before Beth Wombwell struck twice in two minutes to confirm Town's dominance.

It's harsh: Hughes

RUGBY UNION: Martin Hughes had no complaints after seeing Newmarket fall to their third defeat of the season in Eastern Counties Division Two, slumping 28-12 to Thetford.

Newmarket had the perfect start when No 9 John Franks broke from the base of the scrum on halfway, sold two dummies and dived over for a try, which Hughes converted.

And Franks created the second, drawing the full-back before passing for Chris Beaton to score.

Thetford reduced Newmarket's lead to 12-8 at half time and straight after the break scored a try, although Hughes believed the ball had been dropped before it was put down. They also thought the third try was offside, but Hughes said: "It was a good team performance, but the score flattered them a bit. If it had been 14-12 it would have given it a better pitch to what the game was like."

Champs' defence

DARTS: Newmarket Snooker Club start their defence of the men's Champion of Champions team title in a couple of months. They are in the second group – as are Barton Bell A of the Newmarket and District League – on March 15 at the Rathmore Club, Cambridge.

King's Head, winners of the Mildenhall and District League, are in the opening group on February 23, while Black Horse, Swaffham Bulbeck (Bottisham and District) and the New Wellington (Newmarket LVA) enter the fray on April 5 and April 12 respectively.

The finals, again staged at the Rathmore, are on April 19 with the women's singles on May 10 and the men's showpiece on May 17.

Men - February 23: Newnham Social Club (Business Houses), Romsey Labour Club (Cambridge Area Summer), White Swan Connington (Willingham Summer), King's Head (Mildenhall and District), Waggon and Horses (Cottenham and District).

March 15: Littleport Leisure Centre (Littleport and District), Newmarket Snooker Centre (holders), RAFA Club (Eynesbury and St Neots League), Barton Bell A (Newmarket and District).

April 5: Rathmore A (Cambridge Clubs), Boars Head (Whaddon and District), White Horse Swavesey (Willingham Winter), Black Horse Swaffham Bulbeck (Bottisham and District).

April 12: Haymakers (Pubmaster Winter), New Wellington (Newmarket LVA), Histon British Legion (Histon), Gate A (Saffron Walden).

Making a Mark

BOXING: New Astley head trainer Mark O'Reilly has stepped up to senior coach level. He said: "It's nice to get through it, because it was pretty intensive and the final assessment was unbelievable. I had to spend three days having five England coaches following your every move and whatever you did, there had to be a reason for it."

"You don't get away with anything. But that's the way it should be when you're moving up to that sort of level, otherwise there's no point in having it."

SPEEDWAY: ROB'S JUST THE JOB, SAYS ROGERS

Kessler's 'a steal for us'

FEN Tigers team manager Laurence Rogers has hailed his capture of former World Cup finalist Robbie Kessler as a 'steal' for the club.

The 34-year-old German international is the fifth addition to Mildenhall's ranks ahead of the new Premier League campaign.

Kessler is a proven West Row specialist, having grabbed double-figure scores on his two previous visits, giving him an average of almost 10 points.

Rogers said: "Robbie almost joined us 12 months ago but the deal fell through when I was hospitalised."

"I was determined to seal his signing this time and he is a steal for us on a 5.79 average."

"He is a solid performer and his record around Mildenhall speaks for itself. He is very keen to do well and help the younger lads in the team with his experience."

"We have a sponsorship team in place that has enabled him to purchase two new Jawa rolling chassis and have two brand new bikes for the season."

"I expect Robbie to put two points on his average and I'm sure his signing will be well received by the fans. Our team is starting to look formidable."

Kessler, who will line up at No 5, missed the remaining three months of last season after suffering an arm injury in a fall for Rye House.

He joins on loan from Sheffield, where he spent four years, and he also enjoyed an equally successful period with Stoke.

Kessler has represented his country six times, including the 2002 World Cup Final, and was twice the nation's under-21 champion, as well as finishing three times on the rostrum in the German final.

Rogers has ruled out interest in former favourite Jon Armstrong.

He said: "Jon had a serious injury after breaking two bones in his back last year and his fitness could not be proven for us to consider him. His average of above six points was also a stumbling block."

■ Mildenhall postponed the training school practice and quad bike meeting, sponsored by Wellbourne Recoveries of Wisbech, because of adverse track conditions. It has been rearranged for February 2.

VOLLEYBALL

Domino spot on

NEWMARKET Domino hauled themselves off the bottom of the National League, Division 3E with victory against near neighbours, Cambridge. With setter Ben Child linking neatly with power hitter Rob Dovaston, Domino eased to a 10-3 lead in the first set, and with Peter Storm finding his range with his jump serve, Cambridge wobbled. And although they brought the score back to 19-16, when the serve rotation came round to Storm again he blew the home side away 25-21 with his top spin. Nik Mezanov then replaced JP Davis through the left side, and the second set started in similar vein. As Child, Paul Freeman, and especially Dovaston were in uncompromising mood, Newmarket's block took control.

And when Cambridge got the ball over them, superb court coverage by Storm and Mezanov rescued the ball from difficult positions and Domino eased to a 25-17 win.

Resting several of the starting line-up to give squad players Charles Reed and Pete Saunders some experience proved fruitless, as Reed's setting was consistently read by the blockers, and despite his best defensive efforts, Saunders appeared to be overcome by nerves and the set was conceded to 17. However, a return to the first-choice side saw Newmarket tighten up and with Freeman edging Dovaston to the player of the match award thanks to another run of blocks, Davis killed the game with a monster spike.

The lack of concentration that has plagued them all season resurfaced in their previous game against Tonbridge and Domino plunged to defeat.

After trading point for point in the early stages of the first set, they looked good down the middle but, although they were without their main hitter, Tonbridge were well organised and their solid defence helped them win 25-22.

Domino changed pace and attack and levelled the score thanks to some excellent blocking by Dovaston and powerful hitting by MVP Davis. But it all went pear-shaped after that, as Domino, unable to find a first pass or a pressure serve, were put to the sword by the ruthless Tonbridge middle hitter, who inspired his side to a 25-13 win.

Even changes to personnel failed to help and Newmarket looked a shadow of the team from the first two sets and crashed 25-14.

Hot Huff leaves Chevy team-mates trailing in first test

ROB Huff's quest for a drivers' title in the World Touring Car Championship has started with a series of extensive testing sessions to get his RML Chevrolet ready for the season.

The Newmarket-based driver, retained on another three-year deal by the Wellingborough-based team this month, has been to Spain and is now in Portugal. Huff, who has vowed to win the title to repay the team's faith, will take some heart from being faster than his team-mates Alain Menu and Nicola Larini in the first session.

He said: "We've just been out to Valencia for two days and it all went very well. I came out fastest, which I know doesn't mean too much at the moment, but it was nice to be quickest out of the lot in the first session of 2008 and have an edge."

The trip to Spain was mainly to work on the new aerodynamics on the old car, with Huff getting his first glimpse of the new 2008 car this week before he returns to the UK or more testing.

Huff added: "The level of technology we're getting up to with aero-packages and engines is quickly moving up to Formula 1-type stuff, but everything felt really good in Valencia."

"I'm out in Portugal now with the brand new car which I have really been looking forward to putting through its paces."

FOOTBALL: JOCKEYS' BOSS ADMITS HE'S GIVEN UP LOOKING AT THE PREMIER DIVISION TABLE...

One game at a time

JOCKEYS boss Karl Johnson admits he is no longer paying any attention to the Ridgeons League, Premier Division table.

With Newmarket bottom of the pile, the boss claims he is concentrating on one game at a time, starting with the champions Wroxham at home on Saturday.

Under then caretaker manager Tony Marshall, Newmarket crashed 4-1 at the Broadland club in September.

And Johnson said: "I've stopped looking at the league table because that doesn't help. We've got to the stage where we look at it one match at a time. We have to try to compete in these games, but we need to find some better form too."

Newmarket were unable to train on their pitch last week because of the heavy rain, which forced Saturday's Premier Division clash with Harwich & Parkeston to be postponed.

But the weekend's rest should give Tony Beck (foot) and John Olive (groin) chance to recover ready for one of the toughest games of the season.

The Jockeys' showdown against the champions is on the back of two defeats by local rivals Histon reserves and Soham, which has left them 11 points away from safety.

'Hall pair hanging on

JAMIE Tatham and Andy Hughes will have to wait to make their Mildenhall debuts after the weekend's Premier Division game against champions Wroxham was rained off.

The pair joined Tony Lyes and Dave Pinkowski's squad last week and were ready to get thrown in at the deep end at Wroxham, but now they will be looking to Saturday's game against King's Lynn reserves at Recreation Way. Both new signings are strikers with Tatham coming from Bury Town, where he has scored 100 goals in his six years at the club, while Hughes has arrived on a month's loan from Cambridge City.

Joint Mildenhall boss Pinkowski said: "We'll get them in the squad and see if they might even start so we can see what they can do." Mildenhall are fifth in the table and on Saturday will be hoping to extend their unbeaten run to four games against Lynn's second string.
